THE X-acto[®] STORY

It is just 25 years since X-acto, Inc. was founded.

The X-acto Detachable Blade Knife grew out of our line of surgical blades—a background that spells the highest quality and precision.

For the first time a surgically keen sharp knife with a quickly replaceable blade was offered the Art and Craft and Hobby Trades. Its acceptance was prompt and enthusiastic. During the Second World War, X-acto Knives and Blades were used in vast quantities, not only in the Morale Program of the Armed Forces but by model airplane builders.

Over the years a whole line of Hobby Tools designed especially for small model work (many were patented) was developed and marketed. Today the X-acto trade mark is well and favorably known the world over.

Many of the youngsters, who played with X-acto Knives and Tools, have attained leadership in the engineering, aeronautical, automotive and scientific world and remember with nostalgia and gratitude the help and inspiration they derived from the use of X-acto Tools in their youth. They developed many new "end uses" for X-acto in their new careers in electronics and missiles. They are pre-sold on X-acto's precision and usefulness so necessary in the great new jet age in which we live.

The 25 years of service, fair prices, and the integrity and quality, together with X-acto's modern packaging and merchandising has paid off handsomely for us, our dealer and jobber distributors. For them it has always been a profit and prestige line. There was only one general price increase of 20% (during the Korean War) in all this time, when the prices of most products doubled and tripled.

X-acto has never rested on its laurels and is dedicated to creating constantly new and improved useful items in our field.

We are grateful for the loyalty and cooperation received from our many friends and customers.
