about x-acto®

X-acto Knives first came into being in 1935. Over the years X-acto's precision cutting qualities and versatility became known throughout the world. Today one finds X-acto in the hands of hobbyists, artists, draftsmen. In schools, in offices, and on industrial lines, these perfectly balanced knives, offering a wide variety of cutting edges, help to fill the needs of all who require the finest in knives. And just as X-acto fills a need in knives—so, today, X-acto meets the demand for fine craft tools such as precision tweezers, jewelers' pliers, swiss-style files, razor-thin saw blades, and other tools that are needed by the craftsman and hobbyist.

The background and reputation of X-acto carry responsibility to continue developing new products while improving the old. Through continued research we hope to fulfill our goal of more and better tools for the public we serve.

The policy of X-acto, over these many years, has been constant—a policy of assisting dealer and distributor through promotional efforts. This policy will be maintained. The X-acto story of continuing growth through development of quality products, fair prices, and full cooperation will always be our cornerstone.

uses in industry

X-acto Precision Tools for small assemblies are now extensively used by engineers and production-line workers in the following industries: aeronautical, automotive, ceramic, chemical, electrical, electronic, glass, metalworking, paper, petroleum, photographic, plastic, rubber, textile and others.

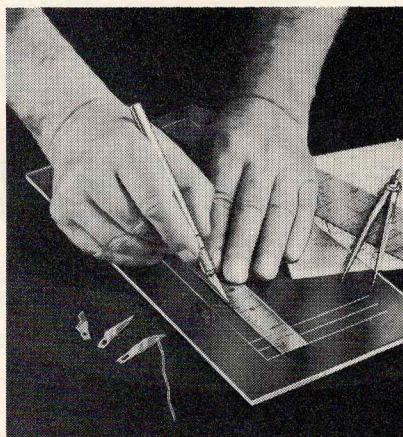

X-acto precision cutting tools in particular are being adopted in the industrial field where they are fast replacing cutting devices such as razor blades and jack-knives.

Below are just a few of the many applications revealed in an industry on-the-job survey.
